

Women Need a Robust Family Planning Safety Net

Cynthia Summers, DrPH, MPH, Executive Vice President

May 24, 2017

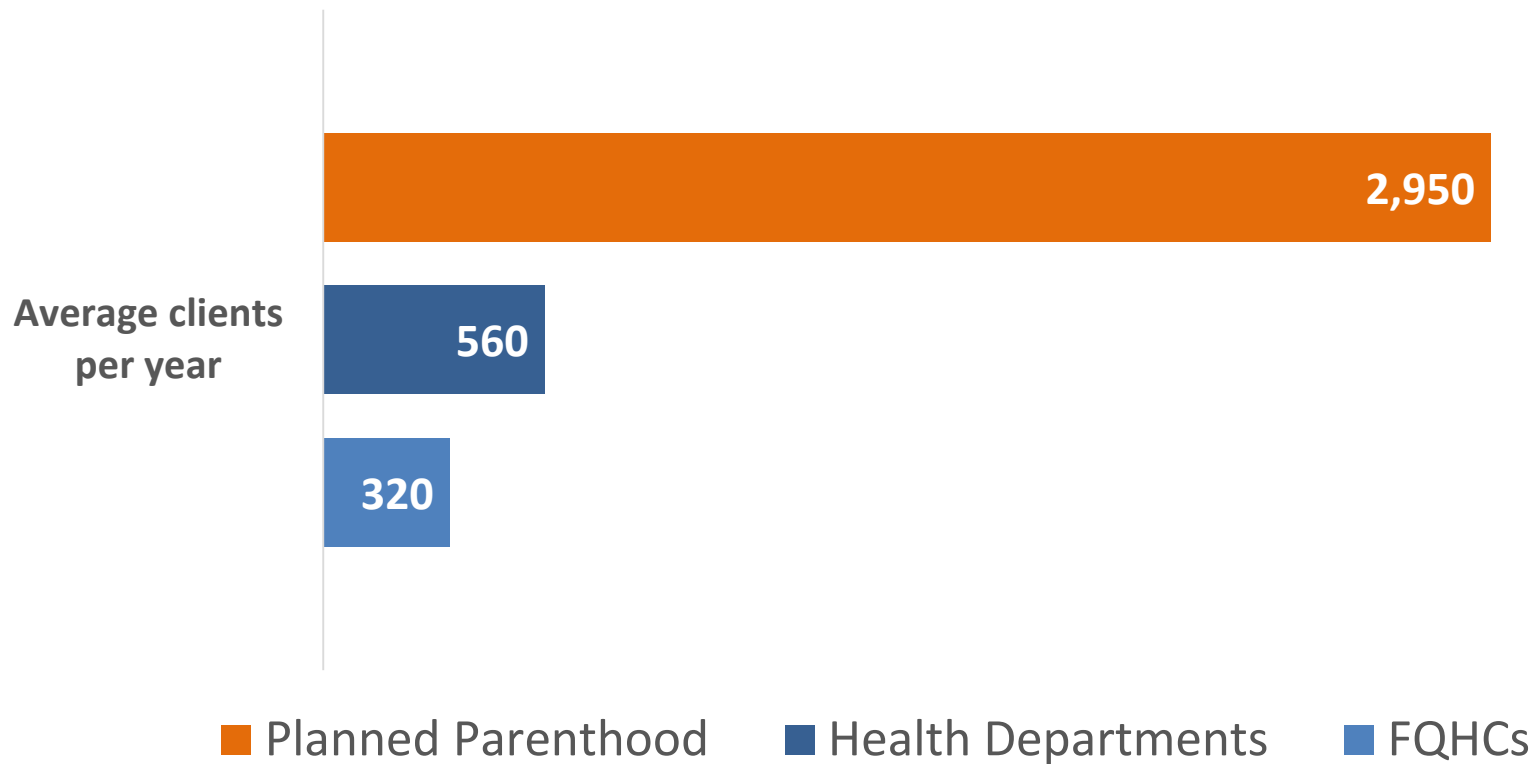

Six in 10 federally qualified health center sites provide contraceptive care

9,670 FQHC sites in 50 states and D.C.

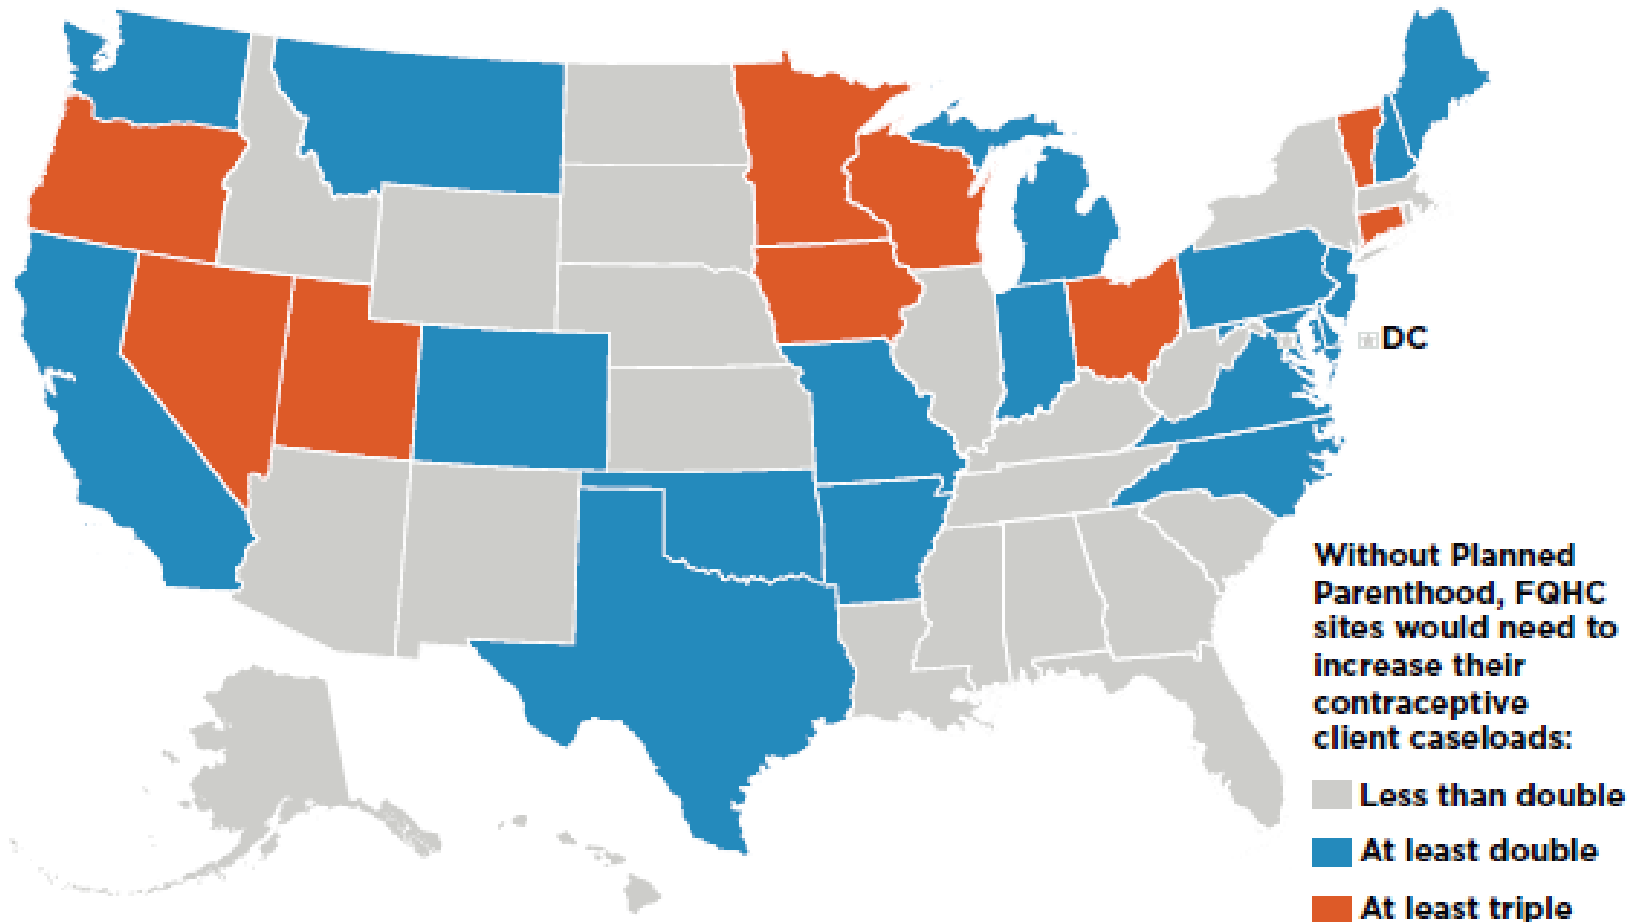

Data are from 2015

Planned Parenthood sites serve high volumes of clients seeking contraceptive care

Data are from 2015

Federally qualified health centers could not readily replace Planned Parenthood at the state level

Data are from 2015

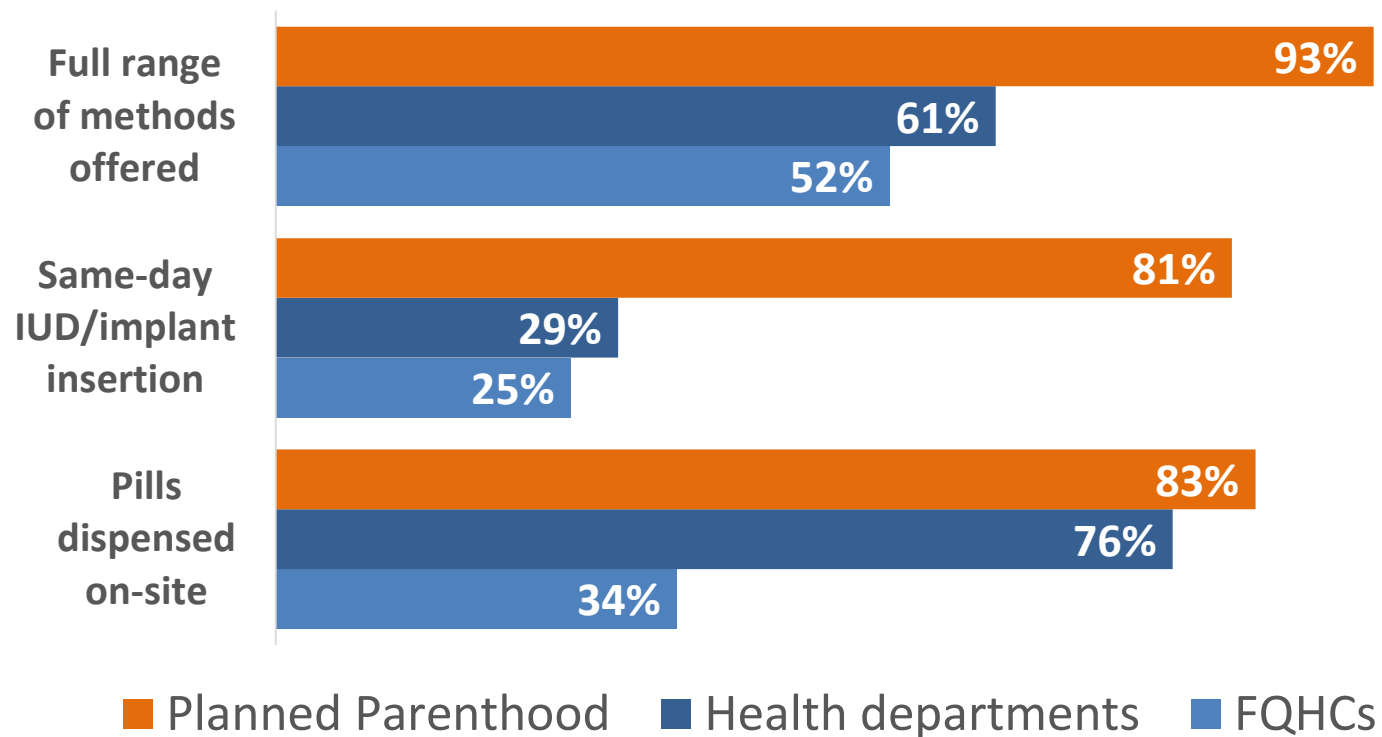

Federally qualified health centers could not readily replace Planned Parenthood at the county level

FQHC sites would need to increase their contraceptive client caseloads:

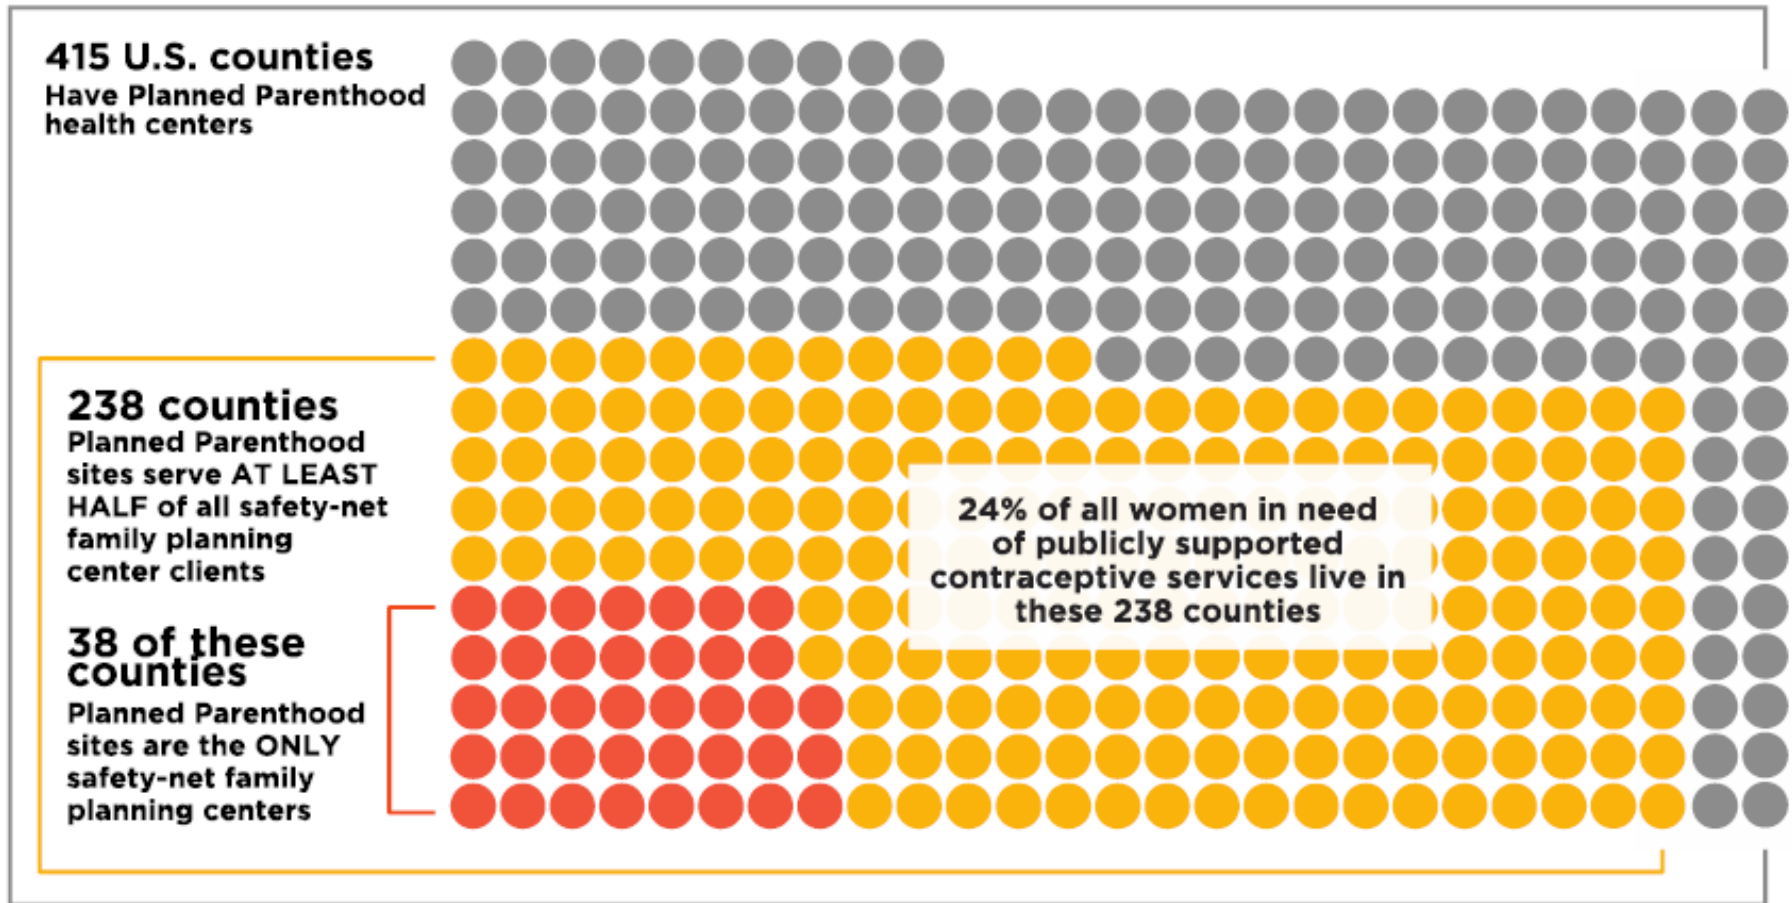

Note: 415 U.S. counties had Planned Parenthood health centers in 2015

Planned Parenthood sites are most likely to take steps to facilitate contraceptive method choice and uptake

Data are from 2015

In many areas of the country, Planned Parenthood is critical to women's reproductive health

Data are from 2015

Contact:

csummers@Guttmacher.org

Resources:

gu.tt/RHIC

