1

The geography of poverty and opportunity has changed

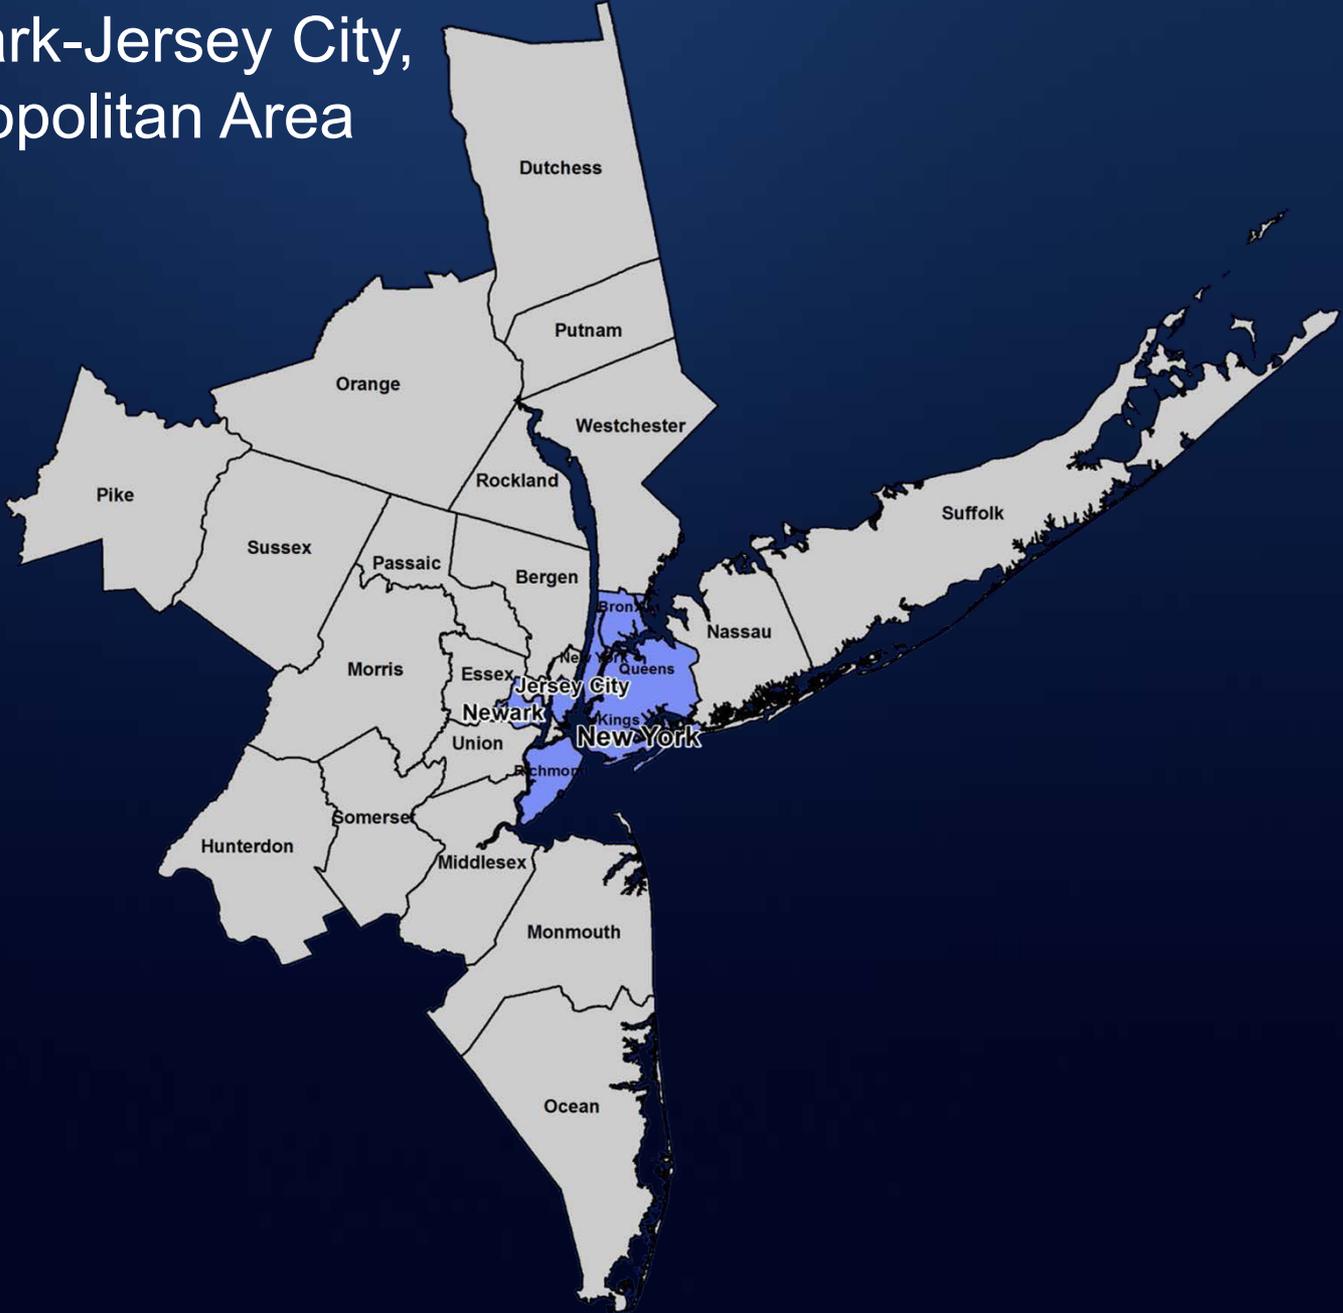

2

We need a new agenda for metropolitan opportunity

New York-Newark-Jersey City, NY-NJ-PA Metropolitan Area

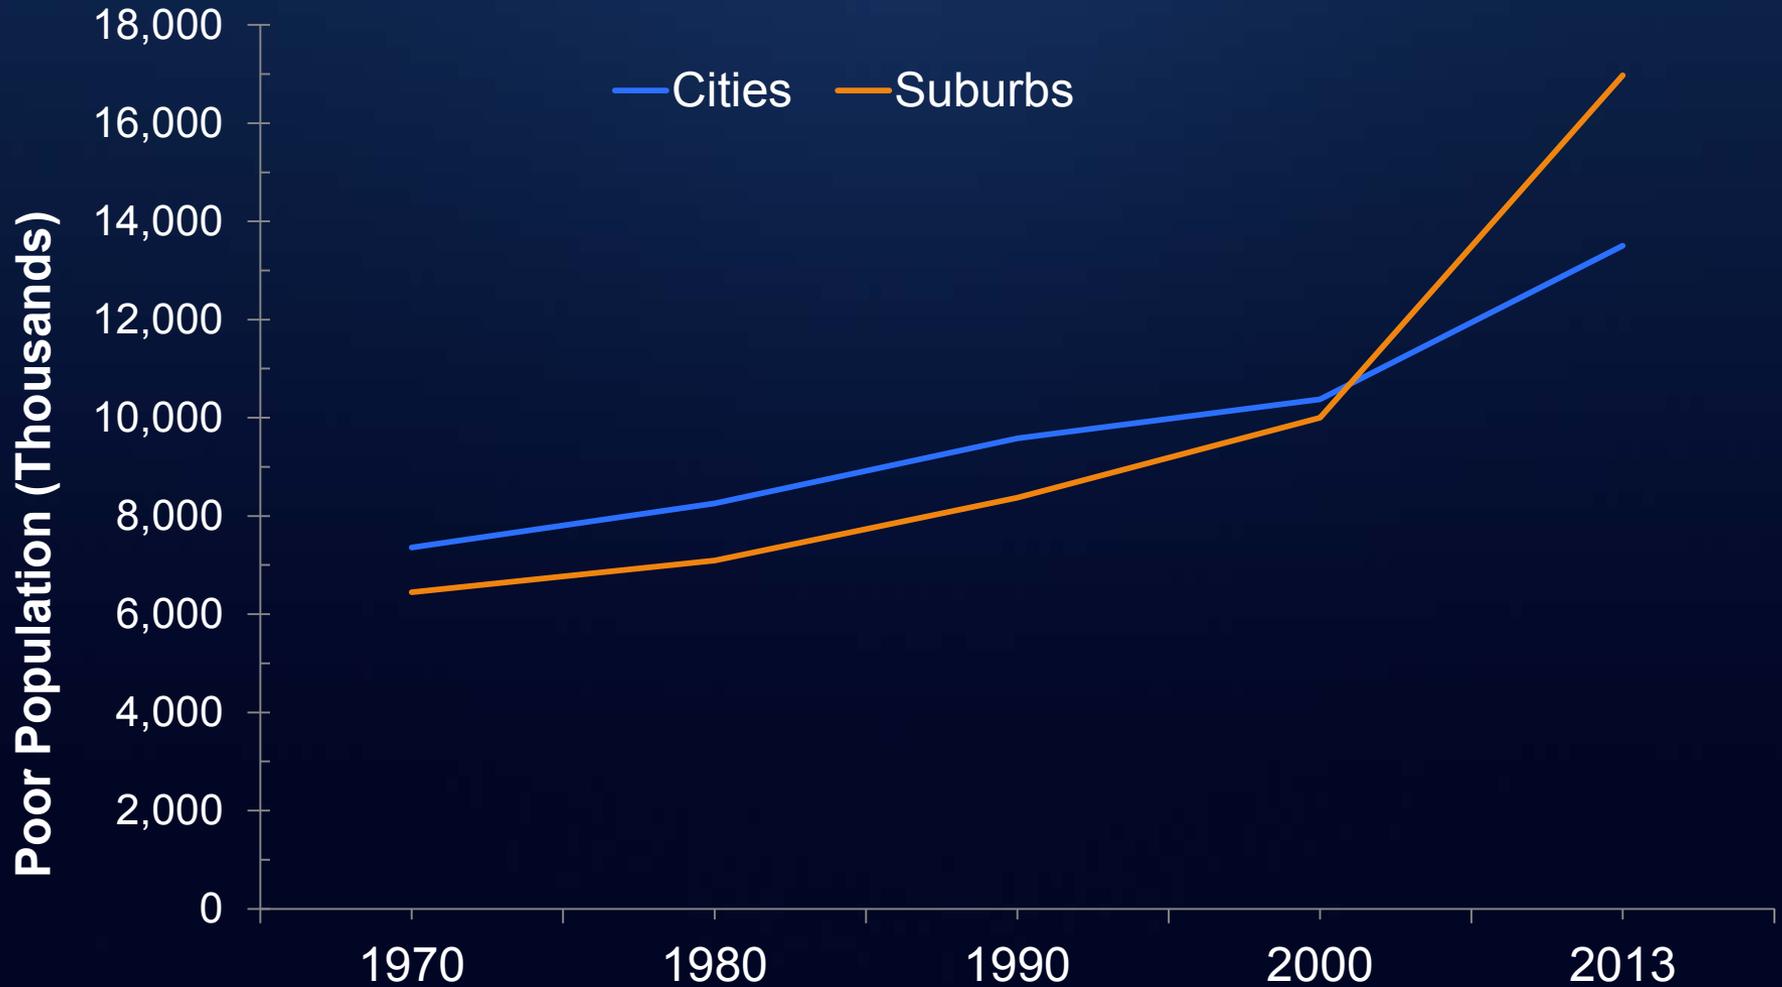

Statistics in this presentation reflect individuals living below the poverty line, which is much less than a “living wage”

Nationally, suburbs are home to the largest and fastest growing poor population

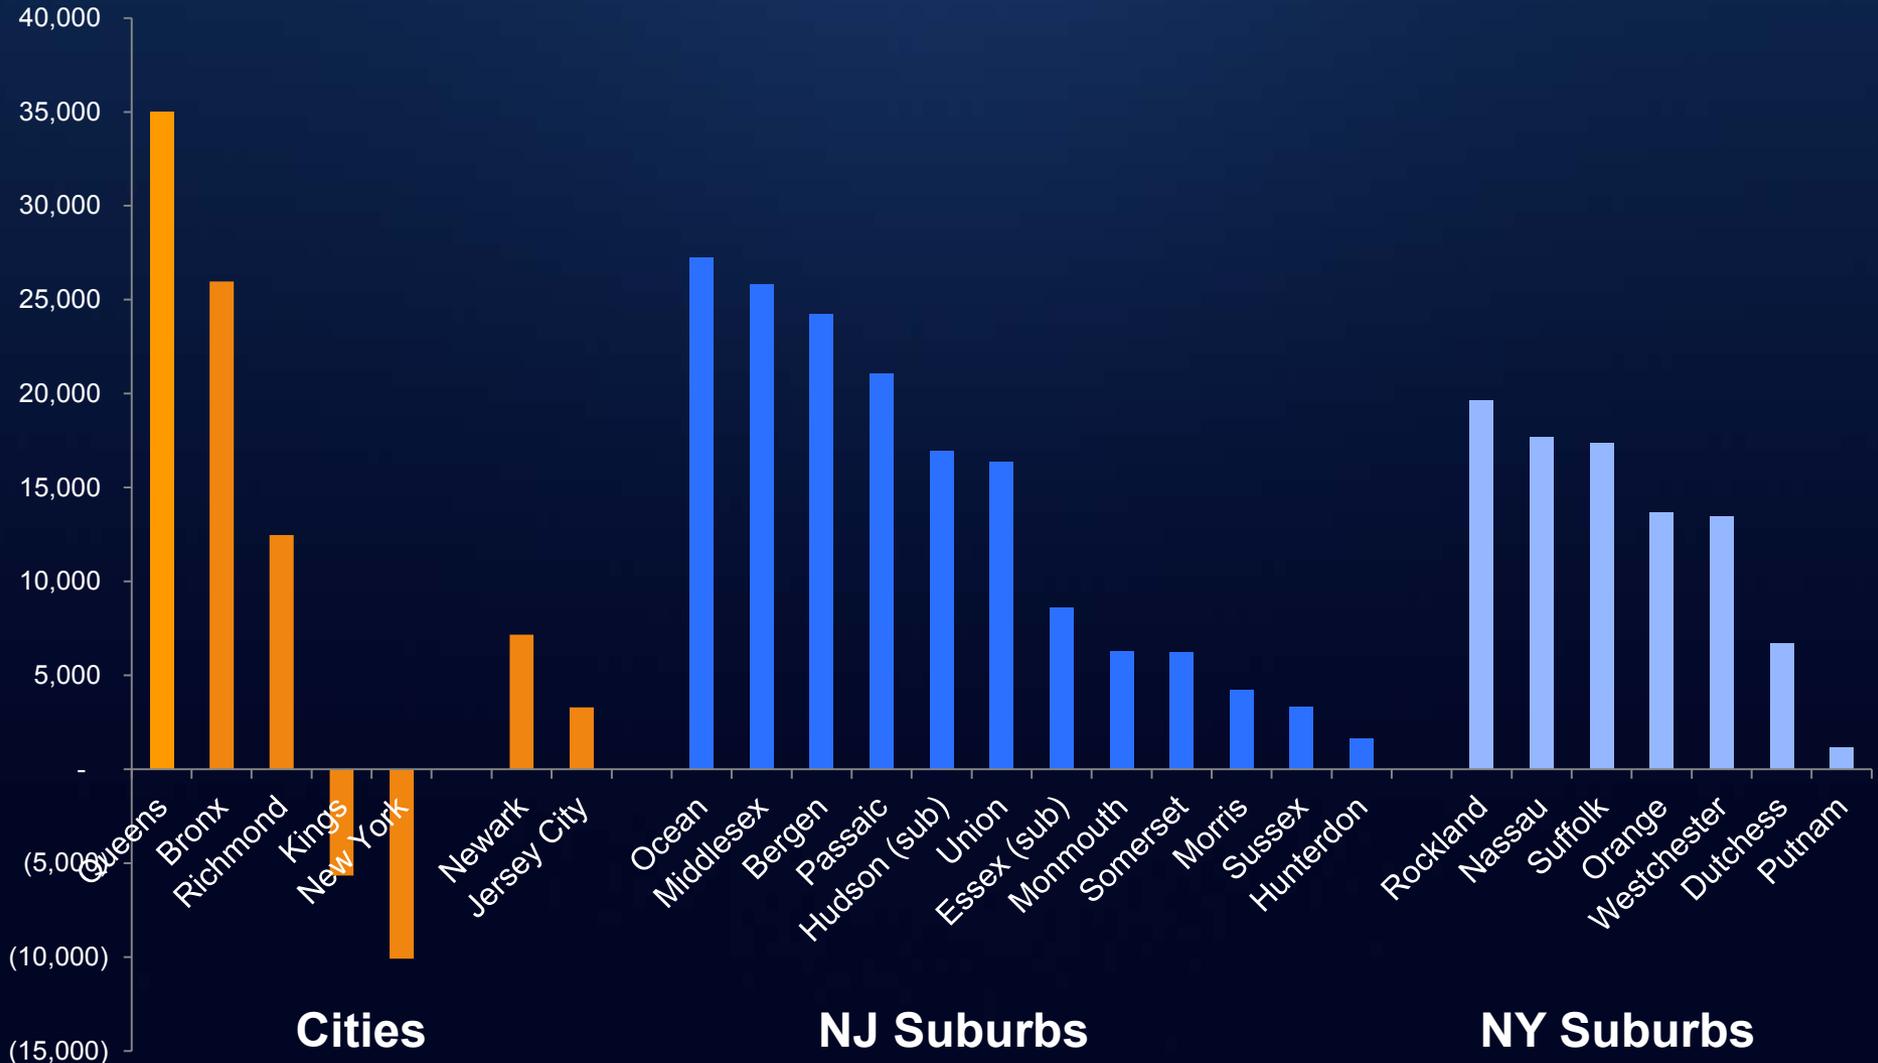

There is more poverty in cities of the New York region, but the number and share of poor is growing faster in the suburbs

Poor populations rose significantly in most NYC suburbs over the last decade, but declined in Manhattan and Brooklyn

Many factors have driven suburbanizing poverty

Population Change

Immigration

Housing

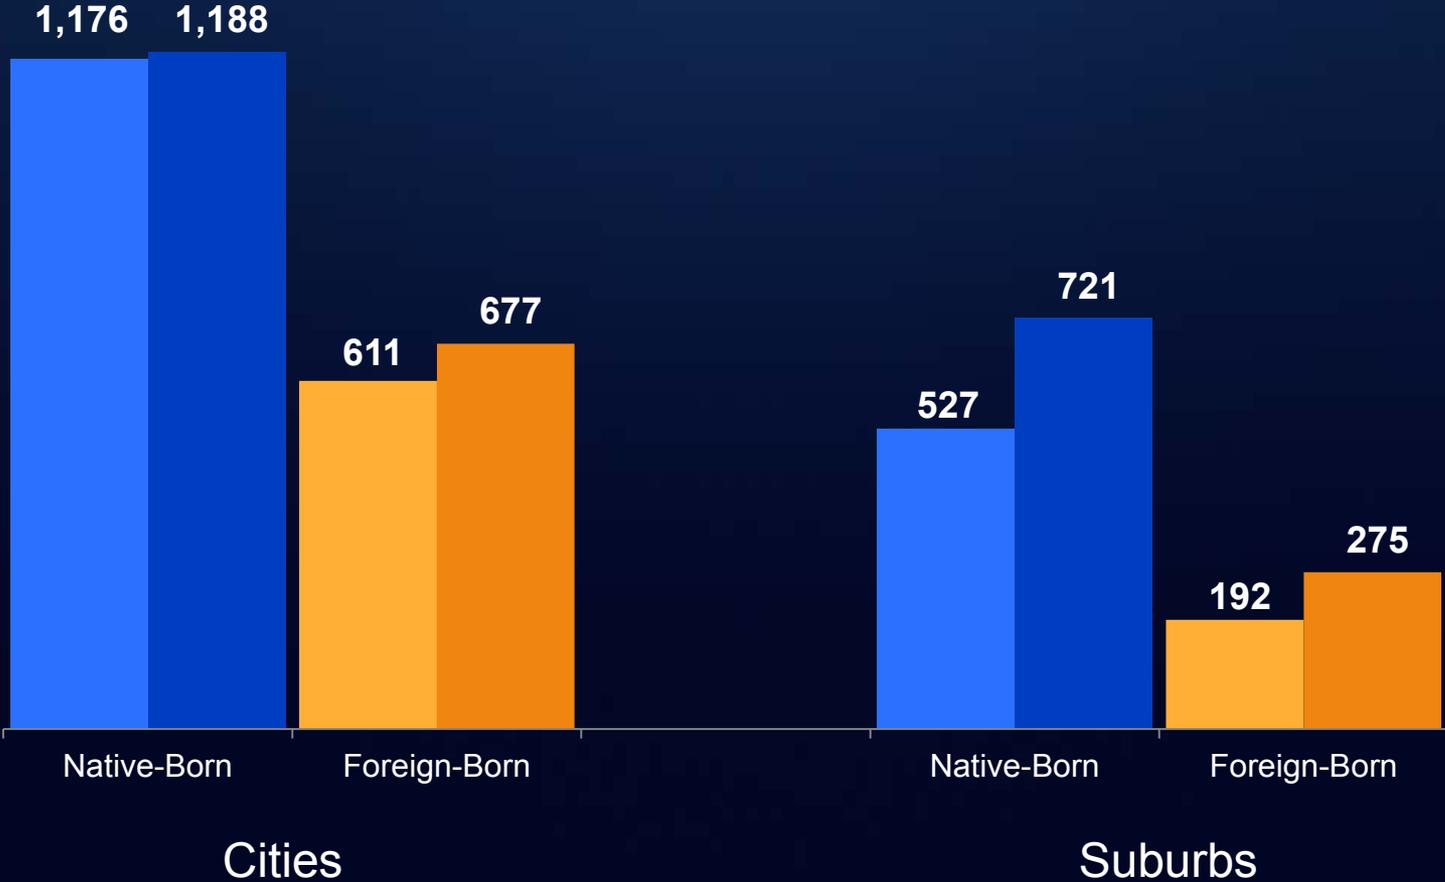

Job Location

Regional Economic Change

Region-wide, poverty increased fastest among U.S.-born suburban residents

Housing costs have risen faster in New York City than in surrounding suburbs

Nearby jobs declined in inner-ring suburbs from 2000 to 2012, and expanded in the urban core

And suburban poverty brings added challenges

Limited Transit Access

Strained Local Services

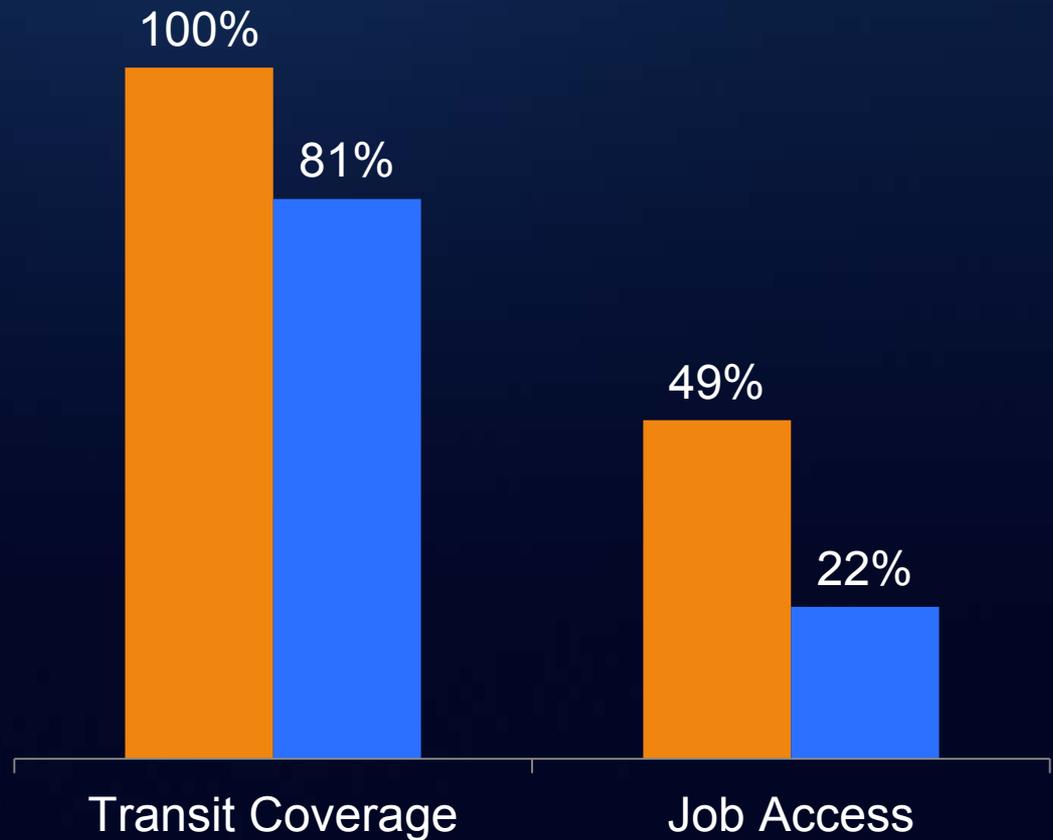

Limited Philanthropic Resources

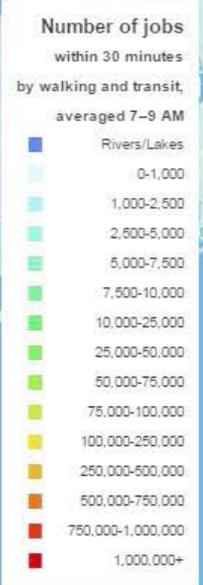

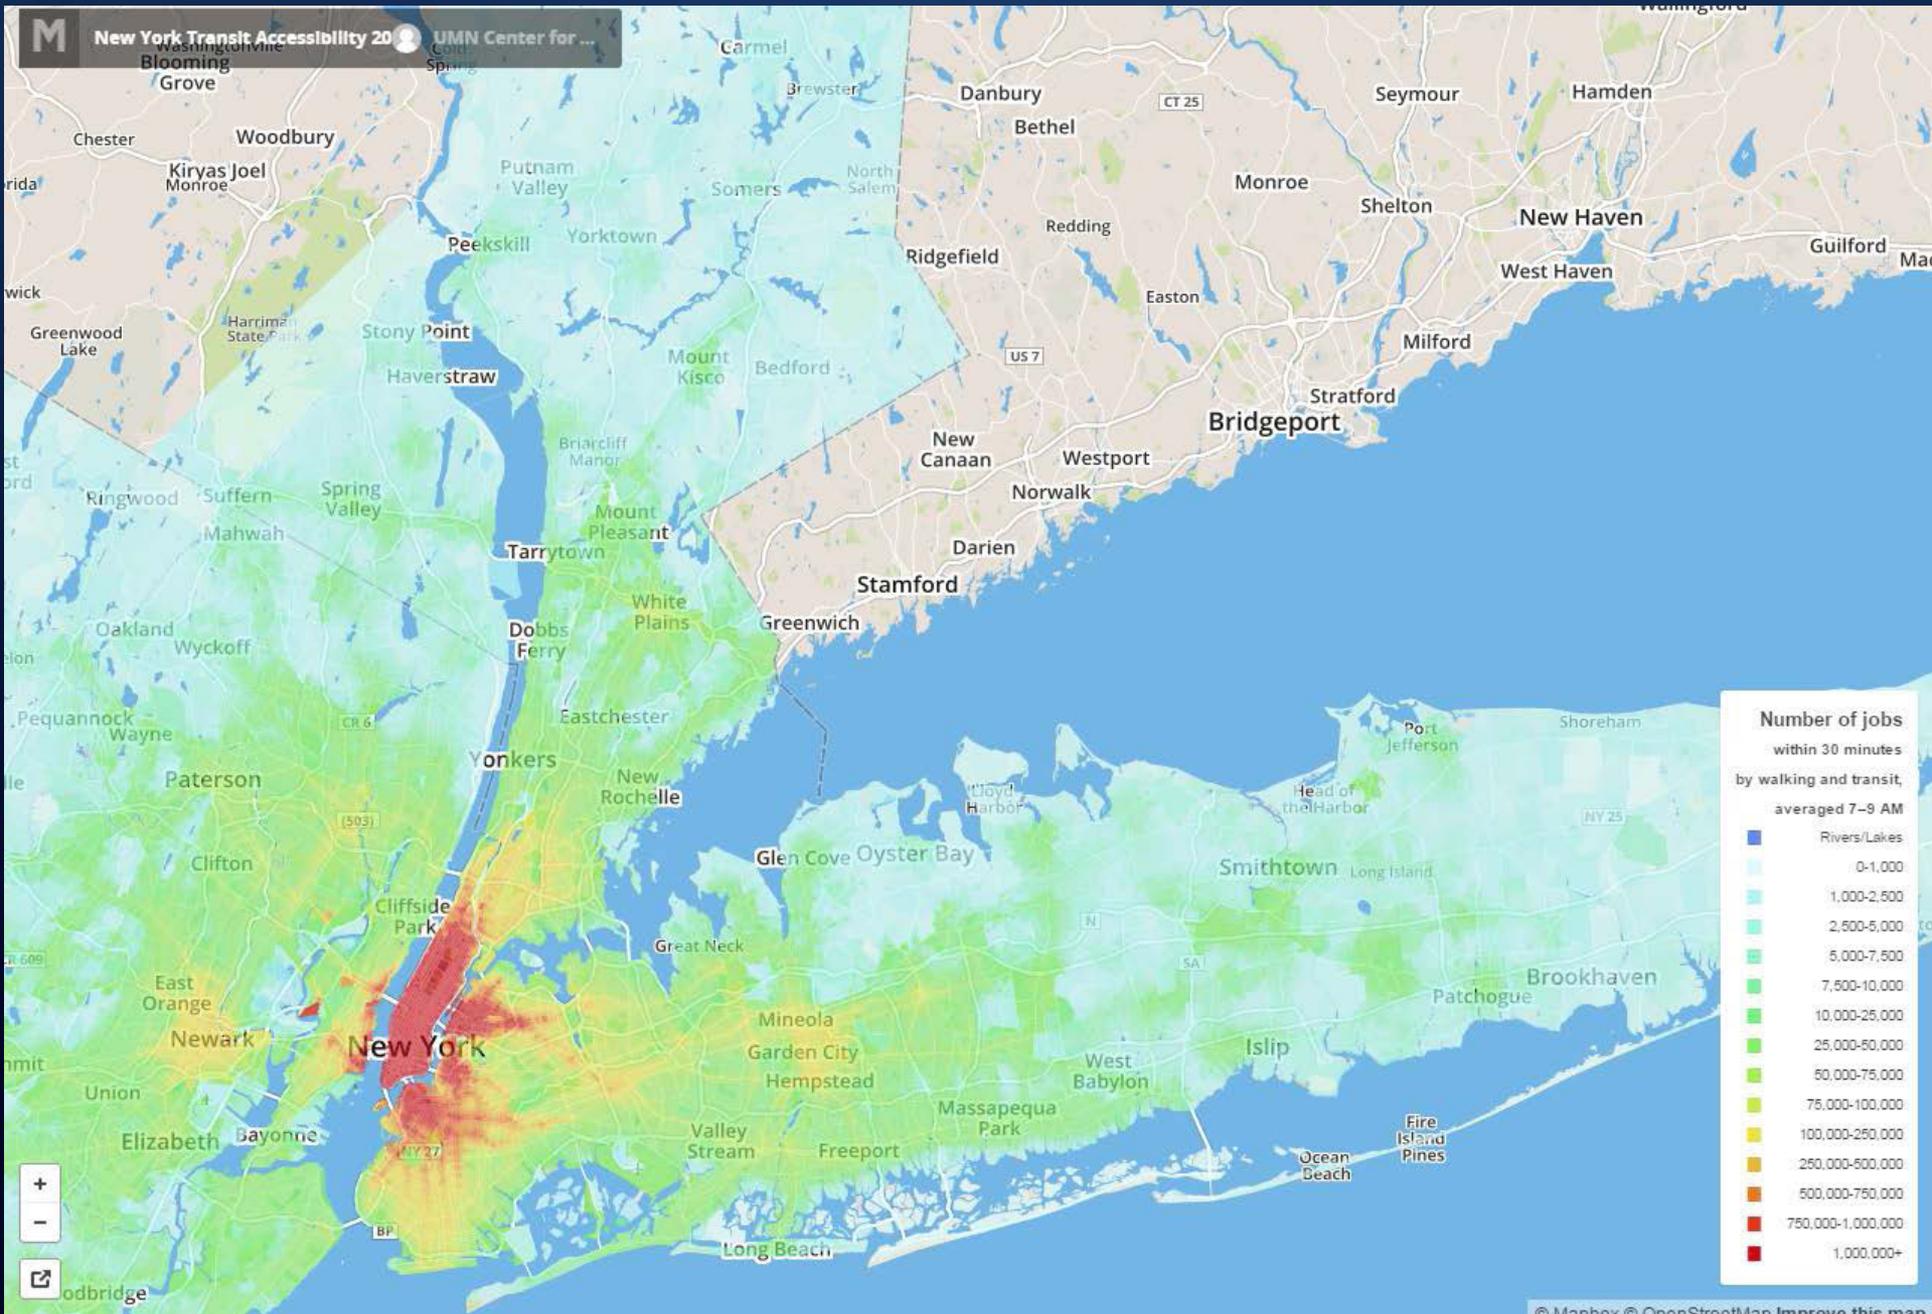

Change in School Populations

Most NY Metro suburbs have some form of transit, but suburban residents can reach far fewer jobs via transit than city residents

■ City ■ Suburbs

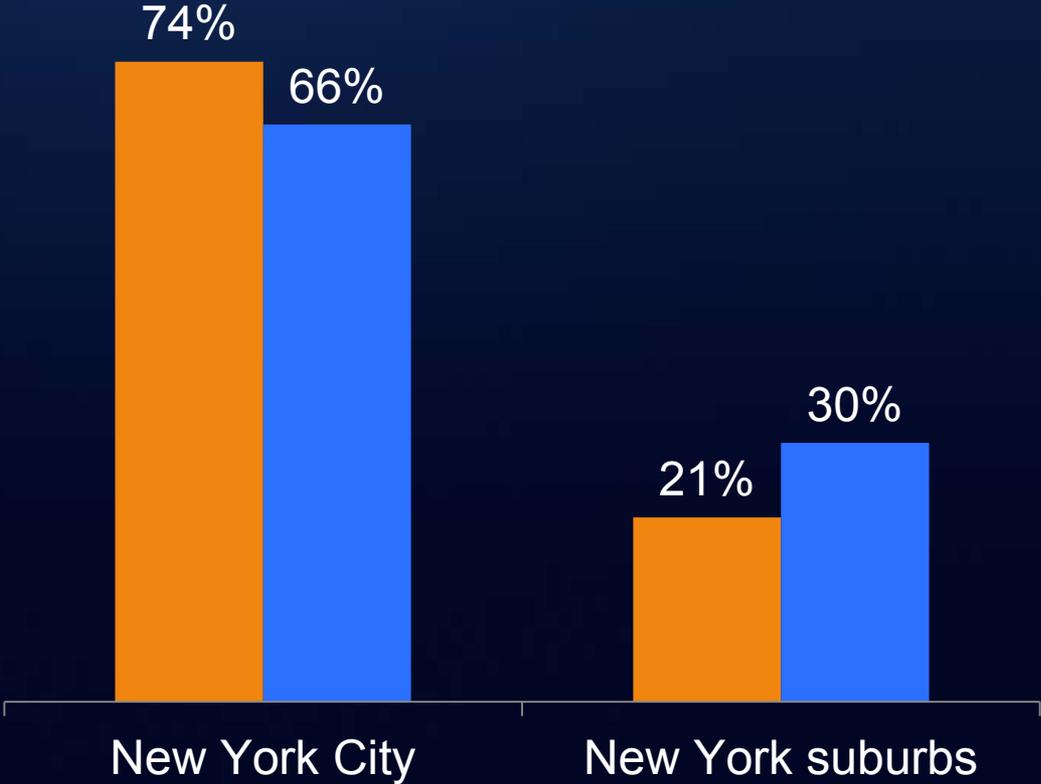

The share of students on low incomes has declined in New York City public schools, but grown in New York suburbs

The legacy system of place-based anti-poverty programs developed over decades does not map easily onto the suburban landscape

Philanthropy is helping organizations confront the new geography of poverty and opportunity in metro areas

Achieve Scale

Possess the capacity to provide more than one type of service in more than one place at the same time

Collaborate and Integrate

Work across jurisdictional and programmatic boundaries to address multidimensional regional issues

Fund Strategically

Invest at the enterprise level; fund outcomes versus outputs; blend dollars from multiple sources

IFF

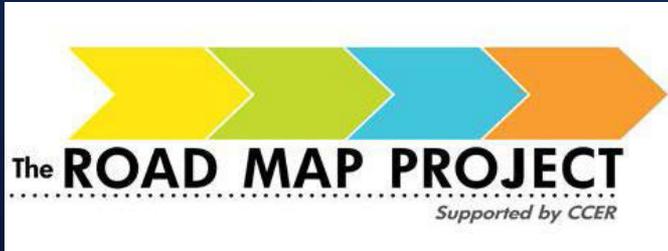

Greater Midwest

- Community development lender, real estate consultant, and public policy research provider
- Works in cities and suburbs across five Midwestern states (IL, IN, IA, MO, WI)
- Grand Victoria Foundation (suburban Chicago) supported a needs assessment and provided subsequent funding around early childhood education in 11 underserved Chicago suburbs

The Road Map Project

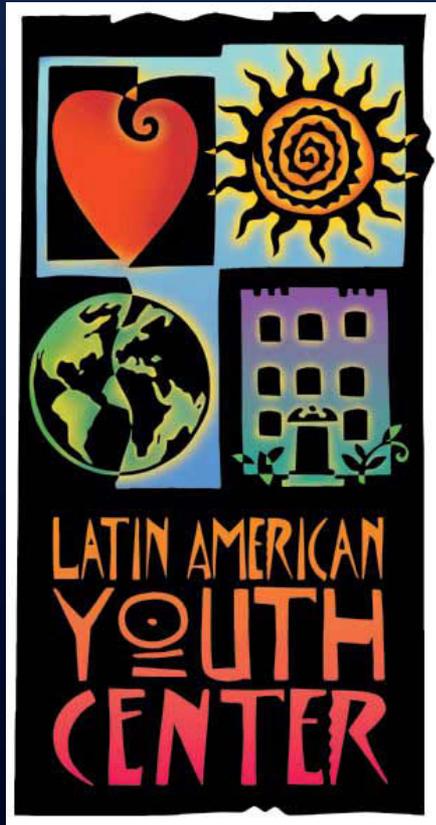

South Seattle and King County suburbs

- Uses a collective impact, cradle to career model to close achievement gaps and improve outcomes, and relies on a consortium of public, private, and nonprofit stakeholders
- Works across seven school districts, including the city of Seattle and six suburban districts
- Seattle Foundation incubated Community Center for Education Results, the quarterback organization for the Road Map Project

Latin American Youth Center

Washington, DC and MD suburbs

- Provides a comprehensive portfolio of services to young people (education, job training, housing, entrepreneurship)
- Uses “Efforts to Outcome” software to align practices across its locations
- Venture Philanthropy Partners provided significant multi-year operating support to enable LAYC and other high-performing DC-based nonprofits to expand into nearby MD suburbs

Creating a Metropolitan Opportunity Challenge could help bring these solutions to scale in regions across the country
